GOODWOOD TAKES ON THE 24 HOURS OF LE MANS

The Goodwood Road Racing Club have been working closely with The Automobile Club de l'Ouest to curate a once-in-a-lifetime exclusive trip to the 24 Hours of Le Mans 2024.

The trip will include luxury accommodation in a private chateau, candle-lit dinners, helicopter shuttles and VIP hospitality at the Circuit de la Sarthe, making it an experience like no other for motorsport fans.

Dawn of a golden era

This year promises to be one of the most competitive 24 hours of Le Mans in its long history. Join us and be part of the excitement.

When the Le Mans 24 Hours celebrated its centenary in 2023 those in attendance must have believed they were witnessing the zenith of the World's Greatest Motor Race. But, just one year later, the French classic is set to be even better. The influx of manufacturers into the ACO's new Hypercar class continues as a torrent rather than a trickle. Joining Toyota, Ferrari, Cadillac, Peugeot and Porsche will be Alpine, BMW, Lamborghini and Isotta Fraschini.

At least 19 manufacturers are expected to compete for overall honours, just a few years after the top class dwindled to fewer than six manufacturers and the future of prototype racing looked in doubt.

Outside of the top class, the switch from bespoke GTE cars to globally-raced GT3 machines has seen the GT ranks swell. Ford, McLaren, BMW, Lexus and Lamborghini join stalwarts Ferrari, Porsche, Aston Martin and Corvette in this massively exciting expanded class.

So massive is this new field that many have already begun to call these years a 'Golden Era' for Le Mans. Such is the interest that tickets for the 2024 event sold out within days when they went on public sale. Organisers have even begun looking at how the grid can be expanded to take in even more cars than the 60 that have taken part in recent years, with manufacturers and private entrants clamouring for a place on the grid.

Supplementing the manufacturers will be a field of ultra-competitive LMP2 cars, the only time you'll be able to see these brilliant machines at the World Endurance Championship for 2024.

And it's not just the cars driving this renewed interest in Le Mans. As manufacturer involvement grows so young and experienced racing drivers begin to hunt out drives. Jenson Button, Robert Kubica and MotoGP legend Valentino Rossi are just three of the megastarnames that have already been confirmed as racing at Le Mans in 2024.

Thankfully the ACO has anticipated this massive influx, spending hundreds of thousands of Euros upgrading facilities around the racetrack, improving access and making the fan experience significantly better. All the brands involved are pulling out all the stops too, bringing huge amounts of trackside entertainment to support their efforts on the tarmac.

There truly is no other motor race quite like the Le Mans 24 Hours. The atmosphere as the hours tick down to race start is electric, the buzz of 300,000 people all waiting for one moment is intoxicating. The event is a heady mix of petrol, beer, food and glorious motorsport that should not be missed.
